Never use the company name publicly

When marketing on social media,
do not use the CBP company name.

Public social media is for creating curiosity,
not giving the entire presentation.

“I’m clicking ads and getting paid. Curious?
Ask me what I’m doing.”

Never call CBP an investment

CBP is a marketing company that sells advertising campaigns.

Do not use words such as:

Investment

Invest / Reinvest

ROI

Interest

Dividends

Return on investment

Instead say:

Purchase an advertising campaign

Start or add another campaign

Use earnings toward another campaign

No numbers or income claims in public marketing

Do not publicly post:

Pay-per-click amounts

Daily, weekly or monthly earnings

Campaign prices or levels

Earnings or withdrawal screenshots

Earnings calculations or projections

“You could make $___” statements

Public = story + curiosity

Private = facts + numbers

When someone asks privately or attends an approved presentation, you CAN share the full details.

Explain facts.

Don't promise someone's financial future.

Lifestyle posts are allowed

Share your lifestyle. Don't promise a lifestyle.

You can share:

Vacations

Family time

Accomplishments

Purchases

Goals and dreams

Flexibility and freedom

Things you're grateful for

ALLOWED

"Beautiful week at the beach with my family."

NOT ALLOWED

"Clicking ads paid for this vacation. You could do this too!"

Share your life. Just don't turn it into a financial promise.

Tell stories. Don't sell results

People connect with stories.

Talk about why you looked, what caught your attention and what you're enjoying.

"I was looking for something different. Someone showed me a way to click ads and get paid. I was curious enough to look, and I'm glad I did. Want to know what I'm doing?"

You don't need numbers to create curiosity.

Never guarantee or exaggerate

Don't say:

Guaranteed income

Risk-free

Easy money

You can't lose

Quit your job

This will make you financially free

This will change your life financially

CBP may have defined compensation for qualifying completed clicks, and those facts can be explained accurately.

That's different from promising what someone's overall financial outcome will be.

Use current, accurate information

Explain the actual program.

Explain the actual campaign terms.

Explain the actual pay-per-click amounts.

Answer questions honestly.

Don't exaggerate, make up projections or use outdated information.

The simple formula

STORY → CURIOSITY → CONVERSATION → INFORMATION

PUBLIC

Tell your story.
Share your lifestyle.
Talk about clicking ads
and getting paid.
Create curiosity.

PRIVATE

Explain CBP,
the advertising
campaigns,
the numbers and
exactly how it works.

ALWAYS

Tell the truth.
Don't exaggerate.
Don't promise outcomes.
Never call CBP
an investment.

FINAL CHECK

Before you hit POST, ask:

“Am I creating curiosity,
or making a financial promise?”

If you're unsure, ask before you post.

Share your story. Create curiosity.
Start conversations. Explain the facts.
